

Declaration of REACH compliance

As manufacturer of noise and heat insulation materials, Cellofoam GmbH & Co. KG is a so-called “downstream user” as defined by the European REACH regulation. In accordance with the definition in the EU Regulation No. 1907/2006 (REACH), our products are “articles” and are therefore not subject to any registration obligation, respectively cannot be registered since REACH covers only the registration of “substances.” Moreover, we are not under the obligation to provide Material Safety Data Sheets for our products.

According to Article 33 of the REACH regulation, we at Cellofoam – as are our suppliers - are obliged to inform the customers if and when substances listed as SVHC (Substances of Very High Concern) are present in one of our products at more than 0.1% of the mass. Herewith we confirm that currently none of our suppliers has informed us of the presence of SVHC-listed substances in the primary materials they supply us with, so that there is no need to provide additional declarations on the absence of these substances from our products.

This information relies on our suppliers’ statements. We have not tested the materials for SVHC in our laboratory.

In case a supplier should inform us of the presence of a candidate substance, we will comply with our statutory duty to inform our customers without further request.

The present declaration was written and issued on the basis of the laws and regulations currently in force as well as to the best of our knowledge, and reflects the current state of knowledge.
